

A funky new look from Source One

Source One, the office furniture and interiors company, was recommended to Claire Sandbrook CEO of Shergroup, the UK's largest debt enforcement agency, to help them with the interior of their new purpose built headquarters

Pat Lewis, Managing Director of Source One, comments: "We were involved very early on in the project, even before the roof was on! It was great to feel part of the team at the initial stages, it meant we could really get to know Claire and her staff and focus on what they really wanted from their new HQ. We provided office layouts, plans and computer visuals to show how the finished offices would look so that Claire was happy with everything."

Claire Sandbrook added: "As Chief Executive for Shergroup I would like to thank everyone at Source One, and especially Pat Lewis, for their fantastic support in helping me to furnish our new offices in such a great style."

"Pat had quite a demanding brief. I didn't want anything traditional, I wanted something slightly "funky" and I wanted furniture which would create an environment for my team where people actually wanted to come to work each day and be proud of their office. I think with his help we have achieved that in spades. It wasn't just his help on seating, desking and storage which was such a plus. It was his entire network of related businesses from plants to partitioning which we plugged into and which has made Shergroup House a place to be really proud of. Clients and visitors alike are always in awe when they arrive and it means doing business with us looks professional from the moment they enter reception.

"Pat has looked after every detail and made sure we were 100% happy with everything. In this day and age that type of service is so often missing. On the day all the furniture arrived it looked like a giant jigsaw but during a two day installation he kept his eye on the ball and wouldn't leave until I was totally happy. So for anyone reading this and looking to refurbish or furnish their office space I would give Source One 11/10 for client service, attention to the smallest details and just making the whole experience of furnishing an office a really great experience. I just can't praise them enough."

For the project Source One provided glass wall partitioning, flooring, window blinds, plants, signage and finally the office furniture. Throughout the six- months life of the project, Source One's time and advice was free FREE OF CHARGE.

Pat concluded "This was a marvellous project for us to be part of. Claire Sandbrook is one of the most respected people in her field in this country and to receive a compliment from her on our service shows that we always exceed our client's expectations which confirms our reputation as leaders in our field. Whatever the size of project, be it 1 chair, 1 desk and a filing cabinet through to a project such as Shergroup's we will ALWAYS offer this level of service with a relaxed, approachable style and a smile!"
